Computational Linguistics for Metadata Building

Using Computational Linguistic
Techniques to Harvest Image Descriptors

CLiMB Briefing

The CLiMB Project

- What are the problems that CLiMB addresses?
- What are the potential CLiMB solutions?
- How did CLiMB come about?
- Who have been CLiMB participants?
- What are the next steps and goals?

Problems in Image Access

- Cataloging digital images
- Traditional approach:
Manual expertise
  - labor intensive
  - expensive
- Can automated techniques help?

Can we harvest image descriptors?

CLiMB Technical Contribution

CLiMB will identify and extract

- proper nouns
- terms and phrases

from text related to an image:

By September 14, 1908, the basis of the Greenes' final design had been worked out. It featured a radically informal, V-shaped plan (that maintained the original angled porch) and interior volumes of various heights, all under a constantly changing roofline that echoed the rise and fall of the mountains behind it. The chimneys and foundation would be constructed of the sandstone boulders that comprised the local geology, and the exterior of the house would be sheathed in stained split-redwood shakes.

— Edward R. Bosley. Greene & Greene. London: Phaidon, 2000. p.127.

CLiMB Overall Goals

The essence of CLiMB:

- Use scholars themselves as “catalogers” by utilizing scholarly publications
- Enhance existing descriptive metadata
- Help cataloger with subject access
- Improve retrieval of images

Outcomes:

- Research: Impact on retrieval through increased numbers of descriptors
- Practice: Suite of CLiMB tools
- Resources: Vocabulary list(s) that can be used by other visual resource professionals

CLiMB History

- CLiMB-1 2002-2004 Columbia University
  - How did it start?
  - What were goals?
  - What were achievements?
  - Next steps
- CLiMB-2 – 2005 University of Maryland
  - Pursuing next steps
  - CLiMB-2 goals and partners - Marilyn White
  - New collections - Angela Giral

How Did CLiMB Start?

- Within the context of interdisciplinary digital library research at Columbia
- Center for Research on Information Access
  - Mission – Link Libraries with DL Technologies
- Search for a libraries-centric project
- Took 2 years to conceptualize

CLiMB Then and Now

- Evolution over time
- Shift from use of
  - diffuse text to
  - more tightly coupled text and image and back to
  - more diffuse relationships between text and image
- Better understanding of criteria
- Clearer idea of possible techniques

CLiMB-1 Project Team

Judith Klavans, PI

Stephen Davis

Angela Giral

Patricia Renfro

Bob Wolven

Roberta Blitz

Rebecca Passonneau

David Elson

CLiMB-1 Achievements

- Created collection selection criteria
- Built and tested prototype CLiMB image cataloging toolkit
- Evaluated use of cataloging toolkit

Key Open Issues

- Processing texts with more diffuse relation between text and image
- Refining CLiMB toolkit
- Utilizing existing vocabularies
- Incorporating into image search platform
- Testing with users, both catalogers and image searchers

Building CLiMB Partnerships

Building Partners

- Collections
  - Museums
  - Libraries
- Users and user groups
  - Catalogers and end users of many types
- Tool builders for digital libraries
- Evaluation, evaluation, evaluation

Next Steps

- Initial project – Ended June 2004
- Planning grant at UMD – January 2005
  - College of Information Studies (CLIS)
- Schedule for 2005:
  - March – Partner meeting
  - April – Coalition for Networked Information (CNI)
  - Submit prospectus May 2005
